

Some of Our Favorite Florals

From The Past Season.....

Introduction & Acknowledgements:

Throughout the year the Rittners Floral School teaching staff creates a range of floral art as part of our instruction.....We challenge ourselves with varied materials/ subjects/topics. It's fun. It's creative, and most importantly It provides our students/friends with even more floral educational resources.

At the end of the year we go through our files and pick some of our favorite floral art from the past 12 months. The choice of what to pick and what to leave out was especially challenging this year, as there were so many really neat florals from which to choose. We often put these into a slide/tape/video and post online. This is the first time we are also presenting some of these in ebook form which allows closer examination.

The various florals are placed randomly without regard to season or theme. We just want you to enjoy the various pieces.

This e-book represents a collective effort and there are many thanks due...

My thanks to Sherry Ricupero on our floral school staff who contributed to the designing in this publication. She is an amazing floral designer and a great person to work with.

My students who are often present during our designing and photo shoots, and offer valuable comments and reactions.

Our supply sources including folks at Riccardi Wholesale, Shlomo Danieli and others.

Last but not least, my thanks to my wife and daughter for their encouragement and feedback.

The kind of effort necessary for this kind of project would not be possible without them.

We hope that you have as much fun seeing these floral pieces and getting inspiration from them, as we did in their creation.
